

The Atlanta Journal-Constitution

Photo courtesy of Caren West PR
Jamie Deen (second from left) joins Breadwinner owners Katie (left), Wendy and Geoff Melkonian at their bakery Tuesday. Deen and brother Bobby filmed segments for their show "Road Tasted."

A Deen taste test

Paula Deen's boys are in Atlanta this week filming segments for the second season of their popular Food Network series "Road Tasted." Savannah's the Lady & Sons restaurant managers and TV hosts Jamie and Bobby Deen spent Tuesday at the Atlanta bakery of Breadwinner, a brother-sister-wife-owned business started by Geoff Melkonian, his sister, Wendy, and his wife, Katie.

For more than seven hours, the Deens and the Melkonians filmed segments, whipping up loaves of the family's signature Papa Don't Peach and Better Than a Bubble Bath Mocha Chocolate Chip breads. The baked goods are available locally at Souper Jenny in Buckhead, Metro Fresh in Midtown, Muss & Turner's in Smyrna and online at getloafed.com.

"Since they built a family business up as well, they were incredibly supportive and humble," Geoff Melkonian told us of the Deen brothers Wednesday. "They were guys you would totally watch the game and have a beer with. We spent a lot of the day cutting up with them."

The segments should air in April.

Neither Geoff nor Wendy is exactly a stranger to the spotlight. As a musician for Five Eight and Josh Joplin, Geoff has appeared on "Late Show With David Letterman" and "Late Night With Conan O'Brien." Wendy, meanwhile, left the taping session this week to don a nun's habit as Sister Mary Gabriel in "Sister Act: The Musical" at the Alliance Theatre, which officially opened Wednesday night.

Contributing: Ken Sugiura and news services